

Index Announcement

US Index Pricing Time

Bloomberg has participated in an extensive number of conversations with various market participants regarding the possibility of moving the US index pricing time from 3 pm to 4 pm. Our position on this matter has evolved over time given feedback from our clients.

We believe the move to 4 pm is warranted given changes to the regulatory environment and will therefore be modifying our pricing time. The scope of this change includes all USD-denominated indices including US Aggregate, US High Yield, and US TIPS. US Municipals already use a 4pm pricing snap. We will announce a specific date for the change once we have completed our internal review.
